A MORNING DANCE

*Submitted by Village of Richfield Springs
Historian Harriett Geywits*

There are many types of dances and among those of the late 1800s was one called a 'German'. This was a complex dance in which one couple would lead the other couples through a variety of figures with a continual change of partners.

Such a dance was held on the morning of August 9, 1888 at the New American. This was the name of the renewed American Hotel which had been destroyed by fire in 1850 and rebuilt by Gen. William P. Johnson in 1851. Johnson died in 1878 and the hotel was run by his heirs. In 1888, it was sold to Uriah Welch who renamed it the New American. It was later purchased by Eugene M. Earle and renamed the Earlington and later still, Allen J. Bloomfield became the owner, naming the famous hotel after himself. By 1938 the hotel had been sold to Louis Goldstone and it became known as the Richfield. It was torn down in 1943.

Not only was the time that the german was held a bit unusual being morning rather than evening, but those who were chosen to make up the dance were all guests of the New American and other prominent village hotels - and all were young ladies. A description of the dance appeared the next day in the Richfield Springs Daily:

"Quite the prettiest and certainly the most pleasing affair that has been given this season was the morning german held at the New American parlors yesterday. It was gotten up and carried out under the auspices of the young ladies of that delightful hotel and they invited the young ladies from the Spring House, Tuller House and Davenport to join them as their guests in the dance. The novelty and uniqueness of the idea rendered it most fascinating and the quiet, unassuming way in which it was conducted entirely captivated all those who came to gaze upon the enchanting spectacle. The participants were all ladies - those taking the part of gentlemen wore black gowns and sailor hats and appeared to be quite as gallant as one could wish. Those presiding at the favor tables gave out exceedingly pretty favors consisting of bunches of flowers, boutonnieres, canes, vases and the like.

FISHING TOURNAMENT RESULTS ANNOUNCED

Recently, the Richfield Springs Community Center held its annual Bass Fishing Tournament fundraiser departing from the New York State Boat Launch on Canadarago Lake. The event drew 35 boats and 75 anglers.

Tournament winners are determined by weighing the three largest bass from each boat for a total combined weight. A "lunker" contest is also held for the tournament's single largest bass caught. Complete results can be found on the Community Center's website at www.richfieldspringscommunitycenter.org Click on the "Fundraisers" tab.

Event organizer and Community Center Board Director, Bill Kosina, said the tournament was a huge success. "This fishing tournament was my dad's idea for a fundraiser for the Community Center dating back to 2006. He had a bait shop and was in the Susquehanna Bass Association. He passed away in 2014, and this is one way of keeping his memory going," said Kosina.

Sponsor donations and 5% of the entry fees funded the $1100 prize pot. Sponsors for the tournament were: Andela Products, G Tech Marine, Inc., Bello Electric and Excavating, James Jordan Association-Architects, and the JC Bait and Tackle Shop. Clinton Tractor & Implement Co. was the event's exclusive Corporate Sponsor.

The Bass Tournament is held in cooperation with NYS Office of Parks, Recreation, and Historic Preservation.

Miss Maude Earle, the dainty blonde, led alone and was greatly admired for her gracefulness, the attractive figures which she introduced and the masterly manner with which she arranged matters. Those dancing (26 in number) were dressed accordingly with those as ladies in white and wearing leghorn hats.

One of the most novel figures was the cocoon figure. Concealed with a screen of tissue, the ladies waited for the signal when, like the chrysalis, they burst forth from their bonds and danced gaily away with whomsoever they met first. The hoop figure was also pleasing, arranged at one end of the room, the 'gentlemen' awaited the rolling of the hoops and wished to grasp one as it glided by. The color on the wire determined the partners in the dance. The London Bridge and Spinning Wheel were two other noticeable movements. The character figure was interesting and the characters were announced in couples from the favor table and the names given out in connection with each other were to designate those who were to dance together. (Among the characters listed were: Pygmalion, Punch, Judy, Prince Charming, Cinderella; Sir Water Raleigh; Queen Elizabeth; Captain John Smith; Pocahontas; Romeo; Juliet; Adonis.)

The room was filled with pretty faces and fair forms and it would be hard to tell which was the fairest. Miss Bedle, whose

Run/Walk Results Announced

Both races started near the intersection of Bronner and Lake Streets in the Village of Richfield Springs. The fundraiser is sanctioned by the Route 20 Road Challenge.

Complete race results can be found on the Community Center's website at www.richfieldspringscommunitycenter.org Click on the "Fundraisers" tab.

charming manners and sweet face have won for her the deepest admiration, was there and her black dotted tulle with dainty moiré ribbons and the coquettish sailor hat, combined to make a beautiful costume for a beautiful girl. Miss Mabel Earle also wore black tulle and was one of the handsomest of 'young men'. Miss Maude Earle was sweet in a gown of dotted muslin with a broad moiré sash. A leghorn wreathed with flowers dropped gracefully over her fair face. Miss Mattie Fisk, who has been a favorite this season, was tastefully attired in black and was quite a gallant cavalier. Miss Natalie Cantoi, whose praises have been often cited was as charming as ever in white China silk and Royal Bennett roses. Miss Dairy Beard was a pleasing escort and wore a rich robe of black lace with gold trimming. Miss Davies' gown was black net and ribbons. Miss Wadsworth, the Chicago belle, was clad in black. Miss Carnrick flitted about in white silk and at the waist a Roman sash was gracefully tied. The gowns were all black and white, but every one was most charmingly original. To say that all were fair to look upon and the dancing remarkable pleasing would be no more than justice.

Lemonade was served to the dancers and those who presided at the favor tables. After the cotillion, the participants arranged themselves in a pleasing group upon the New American veranda for visiting."

Dancing is often described as poetry in motion and is an important form of artistic expression.

"When you dance, your purpose is not to get to a certain place on the floor. It is to enjoy each step along the way."
